

Church Architecture: Something Old, Something New

One WELS effort to enable a sense of transcendence in a multiuse space is Cross of Glory, Peoria, AZ.

This content supplements WTL #18, March, 2006.

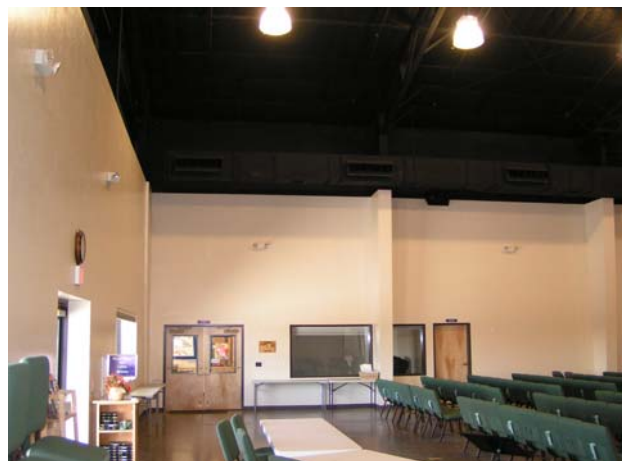

Christmas service at Cross of Glory

The beautiful setting at left is contained within the austere looking building below. The congregation at Peoria, AZ has been able to transform their space into a worshipful atmosphere with a focal point painting.

The darkened ceiling minimizes the utilitarian look.

The multiuse space also contains their fellowship area.
